THEATRICAL.

"THE SPRING MAID."

With the enthusiastic endorsement of music lovers in every prominent city "The Spring Maid" is scheduled to visit this city on March 18, when it plays an engagement of one night at the Paris Grand.

This charming operetta is one of the sauciest and most fascinating ever presented on the American stage, while its dainty and romantic story is one of the most delightful told in music.

And its music. It almost seems like a waste of time to even mention such gems of this alluring score as "Day Dreams," "Two Little Love Bees" and "Fountain Fay," so familiar are they to all music lovers. It is doubtful if anyone at all interested in music has not heard one or more of these song hits.

Princess Bozema, the bewitching little heroine of the operetta, has won more admirers than any other comic opera star before the public, and in the two seasons that she has been singing and dancing her way into the affections of the theatregoers from coast to coast, she has left a trail of them behind her.

Then there is her dashing, though flirtatious royal lover, Prince Aladar. He, too, has won countless thousands of admirers with his gallant ways and dashing appearance. Together they are irresistible. He and Bozema seem fitted for each other from the start and all through the action of the play the audience watches with laughing interest their matching of wits.

"The Spring Maid" broke all records last season in every locality, and Messrs. Werba and Luescher, its producers' announce with pleasure the same excellent cast will appear in the principal roles during its engagement here. There will also be the famous "Spring Maid" chorus and ballet and an enlarged orchestra carried by the company.

SOTHERN AND MARLOWE AT LEXINGTON.

The engagement of E. H. Sothern and Julia Marlowe at the Lexington Opera House, Lexington, Ky., for three nights beginning Monday, March 24, promises to attract very many theatregoers of this city. As is well known to those who keep up on theatrical matters, Mr. Sothern and Miss Marlowe are considered the most important dramatic organization of the English speaking stage. Their business everywhere from coast to coast surpasses that ever known by any theatrical company, and this, despite the fact that they are willing to play at the usual prices charged by the first class attractions; that is, $50 cents to $2. The repertoire arranged for Lexington is a most enticing one. On Monday night, March 24, they will appear in "Romeo and Juliet" on Tuesday night, March 25, "As You Like It," and on Wednesday night, March 26, in "Hamlet." The manager of the Lexington Opera House, Mr. Charles Scott, has arranged to fill all mail orders accompanied by remittance in the sequence of their receipt. Those desiring seats can be assured of good positions by sending check or money order and setting forth their wishes to Mr. Charles Scott, Manager, Opera House, Lexington.

Turkey Thieves Get in Work.

Turkey thieves in the neighborhood of Townsend Wednesday night created quite a sensation and residents of that section had quite an experience in an effort to frustrate the wholesale theft of fowls. Two men with a horse and buggy attempted to rob the turkey roost of a Mr. Scott. The entire neighborhood was aroused and farmers armed with shotguns exchanged several shots with the thieves who were driven away from their vehicle.

Officers in this city were notified and Patrolman Fred Link, Deputy Sheriff Ernest Martin and Thomas Farris went to the scene in an automobile. The vehicle which had been left by the thieves was brought to Paris where it is being held. A number of turkeys were found on the road close to the vehicle.

The theft of turkeys in this county have been very frequent of late and a number of farmers have lost a great many as a result. Last week John Wells and James Rankin, of North Middletown, lost a number of fowls and while in Paris yesterday identified the horse and buggy as being the one which was seen in that neighborhood. No description of the men could be secured.
